'CAKE DECORATION': By Shuchi Gupta of 'Cake Ever After'

The day will begin with ice breaker games for the kids to introduce themselves and get comfortable with each other. The baking session will begin with mixing of batter and baking some cupcakes. This will be followed by whipping frosting to go on the cupcakes. Kids will use various decorating tips and tools, as well as wide variety of berries and other toppings to do the decorating. Each child will each get a pre-baked 6-inch cake to decorate. They will learn to slice the cake into two halves, cover the cake with buttercream neatly and professionally. They will use buttercream to create animal themed cakes; with their choice of animals. The session will also include game time and dancing and of course cupcakes to snack on! Picnic style snack break will be offered, depending on the weather.

'DARE TO DRAW' Art Camp for the Budding Artist: By Sue Funk

This will be a WEEK OF CREATIVITY that includes the following:

Animals: We will explore the “how to” of drawing animals to create a recognizable pet! We will focus on building simple shapes into an animal; how to draw fur, feathers, scales, etc., and how to make these lovable creatures look three dimensional. We will supply varied images of animals; attendees can feel free to bring in additional images of personal interest.

Big, Bigger, Biggest: We will discuss 2 artists - Andy Warhol & Georgia O'Keefe - and how they took everyday objects and blew them up to a super-size. To begin, we will observe a small or regular sized object and Draw it. We will discuss how to draw things larger, using graph paper for those that want to use it. Next, draw the same object twice as big. Does it change in shape, color and texture? Now, draw it three times as big and so on and see what happens to details, etc. With each enlarged drawing, record the changes you see or that you think you will see or that you imagine you will see (is that an ant crawling on the side or is that an alien? Is that a tree painted on your object or is it a miniature planet?)

Castles, Mansions & Strange Habitats: Ever wonder who lives in a castle, mansion or haunted house? Every day we will explore a new, pretty strange home, and then create our own - inside and out! Does your creation have a bowling alley in a bedroom or a pool in the kitchen? Do ghosts keep residents company or scare them? Does a castle that you draw have dragons inside instead of outside? Are insects residents in the old mansion down the street? The more wacky and wonderful the better!!

Exploring Still Life: We will learn how to really, really look at an object, and then draw it. We will add on to this one object with another, then another and on and on. We will learn/review the value of values and composition, shading and color. Along our journey, we will also learn how to use Paper Stumps (Tortillions) for blending and we will create at least one drawing in Monotone. All of this will be created using colored pencils and #2 pencils.

Figures in Motion: We will explore how to draw people realistically so they look like people! We work on drawing them so that they look like they belong wherever you choose. You decide what "kind" of person you want to draw - a sports figure, super hero, etc., - and bring an image of that character (if you have one). This way, you choose the position as well as the kind of person you want to excel at. Students will be guided toward feeling more confident and successful with each drawing you create.

Real Drawing combined with Cartooning: As we investigate the "how to's" of drawing/cartooning, we do so by learning how to draw something realistically, then making that same object into a cartoon object. We will explore real people/cartoon people; landscape/backgrounds; composition/filling in the frame; shading/perspective, etc.

Redraw your Favorite Picture Book: Ever read a book over & over, &, while loving it, wish the pictures were different? You always imagined the hero/heroine as taller/shorter with red hair/green hair, purple/orange eyes, etc. This is your opportunity to draw your favorite book the way you have always imagined it to be. Bring your book to class and let's get started! Every one or group can work on their own book. The end result will be your favorite book with your illustrations! Awesome!!

Dates: July 30 - August 02
